Proofread

오늘 정말 추워요. 저는 일하러 갔어요. 그리고 비가 내렸어요.

: Stick with the same formality/conjugation

저는 치킨과 밥 먹고 싶어요.

하지만 샌드위치를 대신에 먹었어요.

: Add a verb

저는 새로운 것을 배우고 있어요. 저는 졸려요.

: 새로운(New) 것 (Thing)

저는 커피를 많이 마셨었어요. 저는 초콜릿을 먹고 싶어요.

: Practice how to use the expression "I want to"

저는 다음주 휴가를 갈 것이에요.

오늘은 할머니 장례식날이에요.

: 날 (day)

저는 그녀가 그리워서 슬퍼요.

: formality/conjugation (don't forget to add 요 at the end)

저는 그녀를 위하여 양초에 불을 붙였어요.

붙였어요(Attach/light up something, Active voice). 붙었어요 (lit up/Attached on something, Passive voice)

Comment : Very impressive! If I were you, I would practice how to pronounce conjugated verbs. I also suggest practicing the expression "I want to".

Comment : I was very impressed by how quickly you could pick up a new language. Keep up the good work. Here is one Korean word you have a little bit of trouble recalling (But remember, today was your first class!). 운동 (Workout)

Jemie

Comment : Super impressive! After 30 minutes of our lesson, we were able to have an actual conversation. I find that you have difficulty pronouncing words that have ㄹ at the bottom such as 술 집, because the Korean consonant ㄹ is not pronounced like R or L. The solution is to deliberately elongate the part while pronouncing it. I clearly saw that this helped you a lot. This is a pro tip! 꿀 팁 이에요!
